Ruach Ministries

Reaching Hondurans through a K-12 Christian school and missions center located in Comayagua, Honduras.

Rauch International Christian Academy is a bilingual school that ministers to young people through high-quality Christian education and discipleship for elementary through high school. In 2006, RICA students' average score on Honduras' standardized college entrance exam earned the 3rd ranked position nationally. At this time, RICA serves about 150 students in a given school year. Most students are Honduran nationals however there are some students from the US or other countries whose families live in Honduras, all from varying financial backgrounds. All students are provided with an environment that encourages them to maximize their individual gifts, and academic excellence and spiritual strength are consistent focuses.

LANCE & ANNETTE TURNER

History: Ruach International Christian School was established in February 2006 by a team of International Christian workers from The United States, Great Britain, and Honduras. In 2002 Annette Turner (then Annette Ham) was selected as the school's headmaster and entered a year of intense spiritual warfare. Were it not for the grace and protection given by the Holy Spirit, Ruach would not have survived these initial years. Robbery, problems with accreditation and financial struggles threatened to sink the emerging school, but through faith, teamwork, and dedication the Ruach family emerged victorious and has been producing leaders ever since.

Future: Ruach is working with the local government to improve it's educational platform. Potential growth includes continuing education programs in technology, language, and undergraduate work through US based distance learning programs.
